Let's Start!

Bringing home the bacon ... and the milk.

Learning Outcome

Use expressions about relationships and feelings in a range of social and work contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs and work.
- I can talk about wishes and imaginary situations.
- I can write about what is advisable.

Ask your partner:

- In your opinion, who usually makes money for the family: a man, a woman or both?
- Who usually makes more money: younger people or older people? Why?
- Do you think it is the same situation in other places? Why or why not?

Let's Explore!

Tom meets Harald, the delivery man. It's nice to come across some nice folk once in a while!

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Harald: Hello mate! Is this the back door of Bistro 88? I wish they put signs on back doors.
- Tom: Yes, it is.
- Harald: Great, I've got a large food delivery to drop off.
- Tom: I didn't know we were expecting a delivery today. I wish our manager told us things like this. She ought to inform us about deliveries.
- Harald: Well, you see here? I have it on my delivery schedule.
- Tom: OK, carry on then. You could take the food over there.
- Harald: I've got milk, cheese, bacon and coffee. I guess it's for breakfast.
- Tom: Do you have eggs? We barely have enough eggs to get by.
- Harald: Yup, I've got 20 cartons of eggs.
- Tom: What about butter?
- Harald: No, no butter.
- Tom: I wish you had butter.
- Harald: You may want to place another order.
- Tom: OK. I'm Tom, by the way.
- Harald: Pleased to meet you, Tom. Harald here. Nice to come across some nice folk once in awhile.
- Tom: Oh, everyone at Bistro 88 is quite nice, except maybe our manager Vanessa. She's a tough one to figure out. We have to deal with some interesting situations, I can tell you that. I wish I worked somewhere else.
- Harald: Well, everyone has to bring home the bacon, my good boy!

Let's Practice!

Tom talks about what happened after the delivery at Bistro 88.

Instructions: Read the paragraph and circle all the phrasal verbs.

It's nice to come across some nice folk, instead of the difficult people I have to deal with every day at Bistro 88. After Harald dropped off the food, I had to figure out what to order next. I wanted to carry on with my day, but I knew we didn't have enough food to get by.

Let's Practice!

Tom talks about imaginary situations related to work.

Instructions: Complete the sentences below by choosing from the options that you are given.

Giving Advice

You use modals ought to, may and should to give advice.

You can also use the expressions It would be a good idea to ..., You had better ... or You might want to ...

Ought to and had better are used for giving strong advice.

Subject	Modal	Main Verb
You	could	put	the food over there.
Our manager	ought to	inform us	about deliveries.
You	may	want	to place another order.

Examples:

- Our manager ought to inform us about deliveries.
- You could put the food over there.
- You may want to place another order.

Talking about Wishes and Imaginary Situations

You use "I wish ..." to talk about things you do not have or do, or you cannot have or do.

The verb wish introduces an idea. After wish, you use a verb in the past tense.

I wish I knew ...

I wish I had ...

I wish you were ...

Structure:

Wish + Simple Past tense

Example	Meaning
I wish they put signs on back doors.	I want them to put signs on back doors, but they don't.
I wish our manager told us things like this.	I want our manager to tell us things like this, but she doesn't.
I wish I worked somewhere else.	I want to work somewhere else, but I don't.
